Course Description and Purpose
With this course, we will examine the ways race and ethnicity matter in society and the consequences of this for people’s lives. To this end, we will address the following questions:

- How do race and ethnicity shape social life? What does it mean to study race and ethnicity from a sociological perspective?
- How do social inequalities get organized along racial lines? And how do race and ethnicity intersect with other social categories of difference (e.g. class, gender, sexuality, etc.)?
- How have racial inequalities developed over time? What are the social and historical processes that have shaped our understandings of race and ethnicity?

In our exploration of these questions, we will begin by reading a collection of key readings in racial and ethnic studies that lay out central concepts, theories, and historical contexts. We will then utilize these concepts as we read a collection of case studies. Throughout the course, you will work to expand your critical thinking and reflection skills, make meaningful connections between sociological ideas and everyday experience, and better understand how your personal experience of race interacts with larger social and historical forces. We will also discuss the ways people work to eradicate racial inequalities. This course will force us to confront some ugly and painful dimensions of social life and history. But by engaging directly with these issues, we can imagine what a just and equal social world should look like and how we might contribute to making it a reality.

Required Readings
All books are available at the bookstore and on reserve in Penrose library. Other assigned readings will be available on the CLEo site for Soc 267.

You will be assigned one of the following two books—do not purchase until you have been assigned one of these books:

CLEo Course Site Important course information, including some assigned readings, will be posted here. To access the site, go to https://cleo.whitman.edu/portal, type in your Whitman email ID and password, and click on Soc 267A F11 tab in the upper right. Readings will be located under “Resources,” and assignments under “Assignments.”

Course Expectations and Organization
Your active participation in this course is my primary expectation. You will learn much more and earn a higher grade if you remain actively involved. This includes coming to every class, completing the reading assignments and written work by their due dates, bringing your books/readings to class, engaging and participating during our class meetings, visiting my office hours when you have questions and/or concerns, investing yourself fully in the assignments, and keeping an open mind as we proceed through the course. Class meetings will consist of mini-lectures, discussions, small-group work, media presentations, and other activities. You are responsible for staying up-to-date on all course material. This syllabus is our contract and signifies your and my commitment to meeting these expectations.

Office Hours I welcome visitors! Please stop by for any reason, course-related or otherwise. One-on-one discussion of the material helps considerably and most likely will improve your grade. If you cannot make my scheduled office hours, please contact me to make an appointment at another time.

Email Please email me if you have any questions and/or concerns about course material or assignments. I may not always check email in the evenings or over the weekend. Also, I will send course updates occasionally via the course list serve, so please be sure to check your campus email regularly.

Classroom Environment I very much look forward to the discussions we will have in this class, and I encourage honest dialogue and comments from everyone. As we do so, however, I expect you all to be respectful of your classmates’ thoughts and feelings even if you disagree with one another. And please keep your comments succinct, insightful, and always intellectually connected to readings or previous discussions. Also, please turn off your cell phones and laptop computers in class.

Course Feedback I welcome comments and suggestions from you as we proceed with this class. While I cannot accommodate every request, I will take each into consideration. I will solicit feedback occasionally during the course, and if you have thoughts about how to improve or modify course organization, please be in touch with me.

Students with Disabilities If you are a student with a disability who will need accommodations in this course, please meet with Julia Dunn in the Academic Resource Center (Mem. 205, x5213, dunnjl@whitman.edu) for assistance in developing a plan to meet your academic needs.
Course Requirements

In-Class Participation (15%) Participation includes attending class, demonstrating you have completed the assigned readings, and engaging in class discussions, discussion groups, in-class writing, and other activities. I take attendance the first week of class and on an if needed basis afterward. Class discussions are an integral part of this course, so you cannot make up a missed class by simply copying notes from a classmate. Also, assignment updates and details will be discussed in class. If you must miss class, please talk to your classmates first and then see me for clarification and/or more details. Finally, please come to class on time, and be sure to turn off your cell phone and laptop computer.

Discussion Leading (15%) Groups of 4 students will be formed the first week of class. These groups will meet throughout the semester to discuss the readings for that day. You will lead the discussion group two times, and turn in a brief outline and reflection on the days you lead. More detailed prompt to follow.

Book Review and Small Group Presentation (10%) You will read one of two books under the section “Race and Socioeconomic Inequality” below. Within your discussion group of four, you will partner with someone who plans to read the same book. With this partner, you will meet, plan, discuss, and then teach your book to your group members who have read the other book. The other pair will teach you and your partner their book. This will occur over two class periods, on Monday, September 26 and Tuesday, September 27. This in-class conversation will be relatively casual, but you are expected to read your assigned book thoroughly and come prepared to teach the book to the other members of your group during the assigned class periods (about 50 minutes per group). In addition to the in-class discussion, you will submit a 2-3 page book review and discussion outline on the day you present. More detailed prompt to follow. Please note this will happen in the 5th week of class so you will want to plan accordingly in the next few weeks.

Midterm (15%) This exam will require you to utilize course concepts in short essay form. Rather than an exhaustive exam on the content of the first half of the course, the midterm will require you to make a clear argument and draw connections between relevant course ideas. More detailed expectations will be discussed in class. Date: Tuesday, October 18.

Sociological Imagination Paper (15%) You will write a 3-4 page paper for this course. This paper will give you a chance to utilize the principles of the sociological imagination and draw upon course content, by applying them to your own experience of race and ethnicity. More detailed prompt to follow. Paper Due: Monday, October 31.

Partner Research Project (30%) You will work with a partner on a research project this semester, which will culminate in a 15-page paper and 15-minute class presentation. The presentations will happen in the last two weeks of the semester. The final paper is due Friday, December 9. For this project, you will address a race/ethnicity-related issue of your team's choosing. Your team will submit a 1-2 page research project proposal on Monday, October 3. In this proposal, you must lay out your research topic, your plans for conducting the research, and a list of possible sources. You must then set up a meeting with me as a pair to discuss your plans for the project, and I will provide feedback based on the proposal. More detailed prompt to follow.
Grades will be determined as follows:

- 93-100 = A
- 90-92.9 = A-
- 88-89.9 = B+
- 83-87.9 = B
- 80-82.9 = B-
- 78-79.9 = C+
- 73-77.9 = C
- 70-72.9 = C-
- 60-69.9 = D
- 59.9 and below = F

Late Assignments All written assignments are due in class on the date indicated on the syllabus. I do not accept emailed papers. Late work will not be accepted unless there are college-approved reasons for the delay. You must talk with me before the due date of an assignment to have a college-approved extension considered. For all other late work, 2% of the assignment grade will be taken off each day the paper is late, beginning just after the due date and time. Please contact me if you have problems turning in your assignments. I am more likely to understand if I have heard from you before the due date. Be sure to back-up all of your work electronically and retain copies of your graded assignments.

Style and Organization For your written assignments, I expect that in addition to conveying substantive ideas, you will write clearly and organize your paper effectively. This includes presenting and supporting a main argument, using an introduction and conclusion, smoothly integrating outside sources into your own ideas, constructing clear sentences and avoiding grammatical errors, and attaching a bibliography to your paper. Please contact me for assistance with your writing. You may also visit the Writing Center in Olin 223.

Format Please use 12-point font with 1-inch margins, double-spaced text, and page numbers. Be sure to cite sources using American Sociological Association style. If you are unsure of ASA style, please check out this website: www.calstatela.edu/library/bi/rsalina/asa.styleguide.html.
