Faculty/Student Dining Program

Meeting with students outside of class to discuss course topics, assignments, research, advising, or other academic projects is a vital element of the teaching and learning culture at Whitman College. To encourage and support these meetings, the Office of the Provost and Dean of the Faculty funds ID card meal swipes for instructional staff and academic advisers who wish to dine with students in any one of our three on-campus dining halls (Prentiss, Jewett, and Lyman).

The guidelines for participation in this program are the following:

- All instructional staff and academic advisers are eligible to participate.
- All who wish to participate must enroll using an online registration system by 5:00 p.m. on Friday of the first week of classes. (In the Fall semester of 2014 that date is September 5 and in the Spring semester of 2014 that date is January 23.) Online enrollment is a requirement for participation and participants must enroll or re-enroll at the beginning of each semester. Faculty/Student dining accounts are reset to zero at the end of each semester. Questions: Ruth Ladderud (ladderra@whitman.edu).
- All participants are allowed 10 meal swipes per semester.
- Faculty members can continue to purchase Flex dollars, using cash or check, and have that amount added to their ID cards if they wish to eat in the dining halls for purposes other than that for which this program is designed. When doing so, please let the dining hall cashier know that you are using Flex dollars for a particular meal so that the correct account can be charged.

In order to ensure this program’s ongoing financial sustainability, we ask that you respect the purpose for which the Faculty/Student Dining Program is designed.
