INDIVIDUALLY PLANNED MAJORS
Students can create their own major in any area that crosses two or more disciplines or in which Whitman currently does not offer a standard major.

Also offered as a minor
We’re going to push you. We’re going to ask you to think deeply. To ask tough questions. To challenge your biases and open your mind.

You’ll also collaborate — not compete — with other students and faculty. You’ll find they are just as interested in your success as their own.

That’s what we mean when we say Whitman offers a different kind of academic rigor. It’s about achieving excellence, without the attitude.

In our first-year experience course, you’ll learn how to think, research, write and argue like a pro, as well as cultivate a welcoming space where all ideas are heard and respected.

They're accomplished but also accessible. Prominent but decidedly down-to-earth.

THEY'RE ENGAGED in scholarship and research, but also in their students’ lives, attending games and recitals, meeting over coffee, pausing to talk on Ankeny Field. THEY'RE INNOVATIVE AND ADAPTIVE, shaping their teaching to reflect a shifting world, leading students toward broader connections, helping them find ways to anchor ideas in experience. THEY WORK TOGETHER AS A FACULTY to advance interdisciplinary thinking, to share ideas about teaching, to constantly learn from one another.

WHITMAN’S ACCLAIMED FACULTY HAS BEEN HONORED (and funded) by the National Science Foundation, the National Institutes of Health, the Fulbright Fellows Program, the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, the National Endowment for the Arts, the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation, the Pew Charitable Trusts, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and more.
We treat knowledge as a shared experience. Not as a scarce resource.

Once a year, the community embarks on a collective celebration of creative and scholarly output known as the WHITMAN UNDERGRADUATE CONFERENCE. In the last 21 years, more than 3,000 STUDENTS have presented their scholarly or creative work, given talks and proven their knowledge.

Whitman undergraduate researchers PUBLISH IN PEER-REVIEWED JOURNALS, present at national conferences and build professional networks — before they even graduate.

In 2018-2019, 88 WHITMAN STUDENTS RECEIVED INTERNAL FUNDING to conduct collaborative research with faculty from nearly every department on campus, FROM THE HUMANITIES TO THE SCIENCES TO THE ARTS.

Whitman’s CROSS-DISCIPLINARY LEARNING TEACHING INITIATIVE funds collaboration between faculty in different departments. In 2018, that effort brought the departments of art, theatre, computer science, art history and visual culture studies, and film and media studies together to sponsor a semester-long interactive gallery and visiting lecturers exploring the history and power of moving images.

Do work that matters.
Sometimes the most valuable learning happens outside the classroom. That’s why we pay to make it happen.

Each year, dozens of students partner with faculty across campus on research projects with real-world impact. They create NEW KNOWLEDGE and contribute to their fields—including co-authoring published articles with faculty.

Recent projects have included measuring how our eyes respond to disgust; using CT SCANS to study snake evolution; creating better ways to measure CONCUSSIONS AND RECOVERY; studying the role of mitochondrial dysfunction in fatty liver disease; a study of the philosophy of educational pioneer Maria Montessori; and researching, writing and performing an original theatrical work about QUEEN ELIZABETH.

Creativity is not just for artists. It’s a powerful mindset gained by exposure to great works and ideas — and strengthened by experience and practice. It’s the key to finding solutions.

The other mother of invention.

All Whitman students take courses in the arts. Many develop a passion for creation or performance. And every Whittie, regardless of major, leaves here with the intellectual tools and creative inclination to reshape their world for the better.

Whether expert or beginner, STUDENT MUSICIANS, DANCERS, ACTORS and VISUAL ARTISTS find a range of courses and ensembles led by practicing faculty artists and a wide variety of student-run outlets for creative expression.

Whitman’s spectacular 38,000-square-foot FOUTS CENTER FOR VISUAL ARTS houses studios for digital arts, sculpture, painting, drawing, ceramics, printmaking, photography and book arts. Plus, each senior art major gets their own studio space.

Multiple performance and teaching stages. A scene shop and costume shop. Expert instructors. In Harper Joy Theatre, our students learn to use the stage to influence the world.

With multiple choral and band ensembles, individual lessons and academic classes, more than 30% of students PARTICIPATE IN THE MUSIC PROGRAM.

Courses are available in MODERN DANCE AND BALLET, with visiting artists bringing additional cultural styles each semester.
By the time you graduate from college, the world will be more . . .

MORE CONNECTED. MORE COMPLEX. More dependent on people who speak the language of global citizenship.
The Whitman education is enriched by coursework and research opportunities that prepare future humanitarians, teachers, diplomats and entrepreneurs to be strong global thinkers. People who can see past boundaries and think across divides.

PEOPLE UNIQUELY EQUIPPED FOR LIFE AND LEADERSHIP IN AN INCREASINGLY COMPLEX WORLD.

The CONCENTRATION IN GLOBAL STUDIES allows students from every major to add focused study on global issues. You’ll study systems and histories, the movement of people, and the impact of places and events, with complementary language study and off-campus education.

Programs like SEMESTER IN THE WEST and the U.S.-Mexico Border Trip allow Whitman students to learn outside the classroom — way outside. Led by Whitman professors, these experiences allow you and your students to explore social and political communities and diverse ecosystems in context.

Greater together.
Elevating each other.
Something from everyone.

This might be the happiest group of students you’ll ever meet. In spite of their differences. Or perhaps as the result of them.

The Common Ground is Smarts and Drive. A track record of hard work and a desire to learn and think and create in service of a better world. The Differences—of background, opinion, experience, zip code, family—are the fuel that drives a culture of open expression and respectful exchange.

Whether you’re throwing a Frisbee across Ankeny Field, pulling a late-night study session in Penrose Library or meeting with a professor at Cleveland Commons Dining Hall, you’ll build community with people who want you to thrive.

We’ve thought a lot about how best to build a complete college experience – where learning and living are in balance, where everyone has a home and a voice and a seat at the table. That’s why we’ve designed a residential campus experience that helps you make friends from around the globe and share life together. In the dining hall, our entire community can eat together, even if they don’t live on campus. You’ll form bonds with students across majors. Your faculty will become mentors, then friends. You’ll find a community that stays with you for the rest of your life.
Make yourself at home

Each hall is staffed by professional resident directors, student resident assistants and student academic advisors. They all live with you in your hall—planning activities, offering guidance and study support, and helping you navigate college life.

Our residence halls are created to build an atmosphere where you can grow and learn, but also find a space to relax.

Coffee. Meals. Snacks. Study breaks. Our entire campus comes together at Cleveland Commons.

7 residence halls, including first-year and sophomore-specific buildings.

11 interest houses (devoted to writing, arts, service and various languages). 8 Greek chapters. Rental houses for juniors and seniors.

Small city. Big heart.

With a thriving, friendly downtown that’s just moments from campus, Walla Walla is the perfect college town.

Walla Walla was named one of the 50 BEST PLACES TO TRAVEL IN THE WORLD by TRAVEL+LEISURE.

Fodor’s named Walla Walla No. 3 FOR CUTEST MAIN STREETS IN SMALL(ER) CITIES IN AMERICA.

Forbes named Walla Walla in the TOP 100 small places for businesses and careers.

Delicious and distinctive, the Walla Walla SWEET ONION is also the namesake of several local athletic teams, including Whitman’s Ultimate Frisbee team, the city’s West Coast League baseball team and the local women’s flat-track roller derby league.

A county seat with three colleges and a thriving WINE AND AGRICULTURAL INDUSTRY. An arts hub with a resident symphony, chamber music festival and thriving theatre scene. An award-winning downtown with GOURMET RESTAURANTS, BOUTIQUE STORES AND ARTISAN COFFEE SHOPS just minutes from campus. Walnut-tree lined streets with turn-of-the-(last)-century homes. TWO FARMERS MARKETS. Paths and trails and public parks aplenty. ACCESS TO MOUNTAINS, RIVERS, WATERFALLS AND BREATHTAKING VISTAS. A town as walkable, livable and friendly as can be.

Find your limit.
Then push past it.
The unapologetic pursuit of excellence.

Our scholar-athletes are students first, but they are unabashedly athletes.

GIFTED AND AMBITIOUS, FOCUSED AND FIERCE, Whitties win conference championships and compete at the national level. Our coaches may be inspiring leaders and master tacticians, but they’re also part of the faculty, setting yearly learning goals that transcend the win/loss column. In this place, you get the chance to strive and to play as hard as you like without sacrificing the other reasons you’re here.

We have the gear and the guides and the trips every weekend. And a special fund to make sure everyone can get involved. It’s an education in loving the earth, testing your limits and preparing for a life of environmental citizenship.

THE WORLD IS OUT THERE WAITING. EXPLORE IT TOGETHER.

Immerse yourself in new experiences. Our student-led Immersions pre-orientation programs let you join other first-years in an exploration of the outdoors, community engagement and service, and other topics. Make friends and find out what you’re made of before classes even begin.

WHITMAN’S BOB CARSON OUTDOOR PROGRAM FUND gives every student up to $150 each year to put toward the cost of an Outdoor Program trip.

Students in one of Whitman’s Sports Studies, Recreation and Athletics (SSRA) courses descend Coleman Glacier after summiting Mount Baker. SSRA courses have ranged from Beginning Rock Climbing and Wilderness Skills to River Guide Leadership and Advanced Climbing Systems.

Measuring 104 FEET LONG and 39.24 FEET HIGH, Whitman’s Climbing Wall includes hundreds of imprint and free-form panels, and the instructors and gear to help you conquer its 7,000-SQUARE-FEET of climbable surface. The wall plays host to the annual Sweet Onion Crank, an NC3 bouldering competition and rock climbing festival.
You get one life. Make a lasting impact.
Live exponentially.

Life after college should be a natural outgrowth of life in college — directly related to the experiences you’ve found most meaningful.

Whitman’s innovative STUDENT ENGAGEMENT CENTER promotes and facilitates experiences that link classroom and careers. By bringing support for internships, community service, fellowships and career advising under one roof, SEC advisors help students explore a range of opportunities to discover what drives them and to build lives and careers that join calling with purpose.

LINK WHAT YOU LOVE WITH WHAT YOU DO

Attend a workshop, apply for a summer internship grant, and develop a Community Fellowship application.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Find opportunities to work with kids, contribute to the civic life of Walla Walla, or attend a weeklong service trip.

NETWORKING AND RECRUITING

Learn about the job market, get help with resume and cover letters, and do a mock interview.

INTERNSHIPS AND FELLOWSHIPS

Attend on-campus recruiting sessions, engage with alumni, and strategize with a career advisor.

CAREER SERVICES
Learning in context.

An idea born in the classroom. A passion cultivated through research or community outreach. Internships are the chance to bring them together — adding relevance to learning while building skills and connections that launch meaningful lives after college.

WALLA WALLA IS THE PERFECT PARTNER TO OUR STUDENTS, a county seat and growing economic center offering an abundance of opportunities to DO SIGNIFICANT WORK within walking distance of campus. Think globally, act locally.

The WHITMAN COMMUNITY FELLOW PROGRAM pays for students to have yearlong experiences in area nonprofits. They meet community leaders, receive professional mentoring and career guidance, and get the chance to make real change in our community. Recent partners include:

- The Health Center
- Planned Parenthood of Greater Washington and Northern Idaho
- Port of Walla Walla
- Walla Walla County Corrections Department
- YWCA
- Walla Walla Valley Farm to School
- Walla Walla Community Council
- ArtWalla
- Children’s Home Society of Washington
- City of College Place
- Walla Walla Public Schools
- Chamber of Commerce

As the Community Resilience Fellow at Walla Walla Public Schools, psychology major Kimberly Taylor spent a year working with children in after-school programs. The fellowship allowed her to apply what she learned about research methods in a real-world project.

The Whitman Internship Grant awards up to $3,000 to help students connect with meaningful internship opportunities. More than 150 students are funded each summer. Recent internships include:

- Business Impact NW (Seattle)
- Fort Walla Walla Museum
- OpenROV (Berkeley, California)
- Oregon Health & Science University (Portland)
- Seattle Clemency Project
- Special Olympics Oregon
- The Developing Minds Lab at Boston University
- The Grand Cinema (Seattle)
- University of Texas at Arlington
- Walla Walla Symphony

WHITTIES WHO WANT INTERNSHIPS GET INTERNSHIPS.

Faculty and staff leverage personal relationships and community connections into opportunities for their students. College funding covers the expenses. In other words, we’re perfectly situated at the intersection of meaning and opportunity.

USE THE NETWORK

With thousands of alumni around the globe, you’ll never be far from a fellow Whittie. Our alumni love to help out. Our Whitties Helping Whitties events will connect you with alumni in your field to help you find mentors, internships and career opportunities.

Matthias Argenyi practiced using his degree in economics and mathematics as an intern at Goldman Sachs in Seattle.
Day in and day out, Whitman students invest in this place they consider a second home. Throughout the year, Whitties devote more than 9,000 hours in Walla Walla as MENTORS, TEACHERS AND COMMUNITY PARTNERS through one of our 11 student-led community service programs. Countless others give their time through student groups, Greek Life or off-campus internships.

Our students devote their ideas and time to running ongoing COMMUNITY OUTREACH INITIATIVES (many created by Whitman students themselves). Here are a few:

ADOPT-A-GRANDPARENT CREATES RELATIONSHIPS ACROSS GENERATIONS BY PAIRING STUDENTS WITH RESIDENTS OF A NEARBY SENIOR HOME.

The WHITMAN MENTOR PROGRAM pairs 90 Whitman mentors/role models with 90 at-risk children from local elementary schools.

BILINGUAL UNITED pairs Whitman students with local elementary students transitioning from Spanish-speaking to English-speaking classrooms.

The BUDDY PROGRAM cultivates friendships between students and adults with developmental disabilities.

During our SPRING BREAK ENGAGEMENT TRIPS, students dig deeper on social issues outside of the Walla Walla community. The weeklong volunteer trips have tackled issues such as refugees and resettlement in Seattle; environmental conservation in California; and relief and rebuilding in New Orleans.

Whitman Teaches the Movement sends 60-80 students into public school classrooms to teach the history of American civil rights and lessons on compassion, empathy and equality to local K-12 students.

Heeding the call.
Get a bachelor’s in adaptability.

The future belongs to the intellectually nimble. Which is why we’re not just getting you ready for your first job after college — we’re helping you prepare for the second. And the third.

Steady hands in a shifting professional landscape. Whitman’s 2009 graduates made an average of 4.5 professional moves in their first five years after college — earning promotions within their organization or pursuing opportunities to grow in other settings. Because they are naturally adaptable, fearless, articulate and capable of solving problems with moving pieces. Which, not surprisingly, are the exact qualities Whitman cultivates with everything we do.

As of 2018, 60% of graduates of the last decade had completed or were completing an advanced degree.
