Meet John Johnson, Vice President for Diversity and Inclusion

Hello, Whitman. I am Dr. John Johnson (he/him/his), the Vice President for Diversity and Inclusion. I am excited to welcome you to Whitman College.

Throughout the tumultuous and divisive 18 months and our ongoing struggles with pandemic, excitement, anxiety and hope. I am excited by what I see as an institutional commitment to creating an environment that acknowledges the contributions of our Black, Latinx, Indigenous, Asian/Pacific Islander, LGBTQ+ and lower-income students, families, and allies.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.

Inclusive Excellence

Diversity and inclusion are core values at Whitman and every area, unit and department and individual can contribute to making the college more inclusive without dominance, equity without benevolence, inclusion without othering, and belonging without assimilation. This means working to create an environment where someone who is in the numerical minority would not and should not feel like their needs or concerns are less important. Creating an environment where no one is expected to assimilate or degrade, diminish, or marginalize based on their sexual identity, gender identity/identities, race, ethnicity or socio-economic status. A culture where we are expected to accommodate or assimilate.